

Sen. Smith Urges Lockheed Protest To NASA

The tentative choice of a Utah chemical company for a $106 million space shuttle contract by the National Aeronautics and Space Admin. has galvanized disappointed Louisiana and Mississippi congressional delegations into action at the eleventh hour.

In a letter to the General Accounting Office, four senators and 13 House members asked for a "detailed report" on why NASA selected Thiokol Chemical Corp. of Brigham City, Utah, over three other bidding aero-space contractors, two of whom planned to use the Mississippi Test Facility here for their operations.

Mississippi State Senator Martin T. Smith of Poplarville yesterday sent a telegram to Graham Whipple, president of Lockheed Co. in California, urging a formal protest by the company of the NASA decision.

Senator Smith submitted four major points for protest by Lockheed, one of the rejected bidders, in the lengthy telegram which is reprinted below in its entirety:

"I am deeply concerned that NASA has rejected major use of the Mississippi Test Facility and Michoud in the development of the space shuttle rocket motor by the selection of Thiokol's proposal over Lockheed's. Information which I have indicates to me that there was manipulation of cost figures in the consideration of the two proposals to the detriment of Lockheed's proposal and to the detriment of the fullest utilization of M.T.F. and Michoud, both government facilities.

"I strongly urge Lockheed to formally protest and contract award until all concerned have had an opportunity to inquire into the selection, and all matters have been thoroughly explained.

"The areas of greatest concern to me would appear that the greatest freight costs would be involved, as well as failure to project the overall cost of the entire program when increment No. 3 is bid; and the failure to select Lockheed when it is my understanding that Lockheed's over all mission suitability was determined to be No. 1 among those bidding, and when Lockheed's proposed design was No. 1 as compared to Thiokol's being rated No. 4.

"The above inconsistencies and irregularities all appear to be in complete disregard of congress's expressed intent that this program be done in the manner considered most involves: The reported $50 million penalty charged to Lockheed as rental of M.T.F. and Michoud; the weight which was apparently given to the freight rates of $2.50 CWT quoted by Thiokol, rates binding for 30 days only, as against the rate of $8.25 CWT, which the military presently pays; the failure to give proper weight to water freight availability under Lockheed's proposal; the imposition by NASA of wage rates based upon Lockheed's West Coast location rather than those prevailing in the M.T.F. and Michoud area; failure to project the freight costs involved in increment No. 3, wherein it cost effective; and that this cost-saving philosophy be applied from the inception of the program equally to the development and production, and that use of government facilities would not only be allowed but encouraged.

"I make this request that you formally protest the contract award not only as a state senator representing Hancock and Pearl River Counties, as well as the interest of Mississippi, but also as an individual citizen and taxpayer interested in the most cost-effective method of going forward with the space shuttle program."

Burk In, GRPC Out With Bay Council

The Bay St. Louis city council indirectly turned down a proposal by Gulf Regional Planning Commission Monday which would have allowed the commission to act as coordinating agency for the city in any 201 sewerage study.

The council split 2-1 over the question with Mayor Warren Carver in favor of employing Gulf Regional and commissioners Lucien Kidd and Clarence Ladner in favor of rejecting the proposal.

The discussion occurred after the council was presented three contracts for signing from Burk & Associates, engineers from New Orleans who were verbally retained by the council earlier to perform studies for sewerage collection and treatment facilities.

The council had voted to delay signing the contracts at its last meeting pending closer examination of the GRPC proposal.

At Monday's meeting councilman Kidd said that he was in favor of the council going ahead with what they had originally set out to do.

"It looks like we're getting into confusion again," he said. "I think that we should request that the county and the city of Waveland get together with the Air and Water Pollution Commission and EPA and let's get down there and get it from the horse's mouth."

"We don't need Gulf Regional Planning Commission to do this," Kidd said that it was about time that the city started getting some figures computed so "we can at least know which way we're going."

Ladner agreed stating he felt that the city would only be committing more expense should they work with Gulf Regional.

"I see no reason to hire somebody else to do something," he said, "when maybe we've already got people who can do it. And until such time as we have this meeting with the EPA and the Air and Water Pollution Board, I see no reason why we should employ Gulf Regional."

Kidd said that the main thing that had not yet been decided was the planning area.

"And I think the Air and Water Pollution Control Board and EPA are the ones who are going to designate this; not us, not the county, not the city of Waveland and not Gulf Regional Planning, he said.

"They're the boys who are going to put up the funds and they're the ones who are going to decide what they want this plan studied on. As a result I think that we're just floundering here. The year 1977 is going to catch us before we even turn around."

Ladner said that the Air and Water Pollution Control Board had told the council several weeks ago that the city had to come up with an area of planning, but who came up with that plan was immaterial to them. Ladner said that the contingent, who traveled to Jackson, was told that they could have their own city engineers do it, or they could have the city engineer for Hancock County or for Waveland do it, just so long as there was a master plan.

The board, he said, was interested in meeting with the three entities later to decide who would coordinate the study.

The council also got into discussion over one of the other contracts with Burk for construction of a pier and small boat launching facility.

Bay Cuts City Court Clerk, Grants Tax Exemptions

The Bay St. Louis city council voted to grant two petitions for tax exemptions Monday and moved to hold action on a proposal to abolish the office of a police court clerk.

In a 2-1 vote the council passed a motion to grant tax exempt status to the Eljer Plumbing Division of Wallace-Murray after a 20-minute pro and con session between Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver and attorney for Eljer.

The council voted unanimously to grant another tax exempt status to Trinity Christian Institute after city attorney Joseph Gex said that the city could exercise its option under zoning ordinances if they so chose.

Carver said that he was not convinced Eljer should be given an exemption. The company, which took over a lease agreement with the city for the building, is the third tenant since 1962. The structure was built under a B.A.W.I. bond issue.

Carver said that the city faced a $20,000 budget deficit and needed the help of everybody to carry on.

"I don't think that they (Eljer) would object to a nominal and fair assessment," he said.

Walter Phillips, attorney for Eljer, said that the state attorney general had concurred with him that the industry did meet requirements for tax exemption if the city so chose to comply with the company's request.

There is no exemption now to real property or to the building itself, he said, because this was not an assessable item since the property belonged to the city. All that was assessable, he said, was personal property (machinery and furniture).

"Actually if you assess that in line with everything else in the city you'd be getting very, very little income from it," he said, adding that he thought the city should look on it as more of a good will gesture.

Concerning the matter of disposing of the services of a special court clerk, Carver said that he thought the work could be done just as well right at city hall and would result in a $50 a month saving to the city.

"I think really it would be an advantage to me as far as police work is concerned to have these things here and know what's going on, rather than to pay somebody on the outside where I never see any of the doings of the city court," Carver said.

Youngsters Caught In Burglary Spree

Bay police arrested two young brothers and another juvenile boy Dec. 2 in connection with a series of burglaries and related cases of breaking and entering residences in Bay St. Louis.

The two brothers, 12 and 14 years old, were released to the custody of their father following their apprehension Sunday night by Ptn. Emmitt Ellis and Alphonse Sheppard, who caught the two in the process of attempted burglary of a residence at 333 Main St.

Tuesday morning the two youths and a 12-year-old friend were caught in a shed behind a Thomas St. home, in possession of stolen property.

Under interrogation by Police Chief William Carbonetto, the boys admitted to committing burglaries at the following residences: 305 deMontluzin St., a pair of stereo headphones valued at $75, a child's piggy bank containing $10; 341 Main St., a pocket watch, a portable typewriter, an electric razor, a carton of cigarettes; 411 deMontluzin St., a portable radio, metal box containing valuable papers and an undetermined amount of change.

All stolen items have been recovered by police. The children have been turned over to juvenile authorities for further action.

Cities, County Holding Out On GRPC As Coordinating Agent

The Gulf Regional Planning Commission got farther away from being named coordinating agency for a two city-county sewer plan study Monday when Hancock County supervisors again deferred action on the resolution.

At an earlier meeting, Waveland rejected a proposal to accept GRPC as coordinating agency for the study, decrying any involvement with Bay St. Louis or the county in a master plan study.

At a Monday meeting the Bay council also tabled action of the proposal pending further conference with federal and state regulatory agencies on the matter. At the same time the council contracted with Burk & Associates of New Orleans to conduct the 201 study for the city.

Although supervisors James Travira and Alton A. Kellar urged the board Monday to accept GRPC's proposal, Oscar Peterson and H. "Bully" Zengarling fell in line with Jerry Ladner's insistence that no decision should be made until the board's next meeting Dec. 21.

In other matters, the board

- accepted the sole bid from H.E. Wilson Contractors for $23,508 to build a 76 foot concrete bridge at Ansley, under revenue sharing funds.
- authorized progress payments on several revenue sharing road projects completed.
- accepted the only bid submitted for a bookmobile for the city-county library at a total cost of $24,715 from Recreational Vehicle Sales, Inc. of Jackson. The cost would be reduced to $23,455 if the vehicle were picked up in — deferred action on seven bids submitted for fire department equipment under revenue sharing funds.

The board recessed until 9 a.m. Dec. 21.

13 Arrested On Drug Charges Saturday Night

Thirteen New Orleans residents were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and paraphernalia Saturday night by members of the Hancock County Sheriff's department.

Sheriff's deputies and an agent of the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission arrested the group at a camping area below the Bienville community on Catahoula Creek.

Arrested were Kenneth Stone, 22; Timothy J. Pete, 21; Don Lutz, 25; Ricky McClendon, 22; David C. Wunder, 21; Sheila Ann Datri, 18; John C. Jeffords, 26; James M. Meyer, 19; Raymond Rhodes, 20; Joseph P. Untz, 23; Elaine M. Vignes, 19; Joseph M. Meyer, 26 and Margaret Hepler Linzy, 22, who was also charged with possession of a concealed weapon.

Arresting officers were Ronald Peterson, Paul Bernard, Game Warden C. J. Cameron and Pat Toomey. A number of units from Bay and Waveland police departments and Highway Patrol also assisted.

Waveland Eyed For New Motel Venture

Waveland city aldermen were told Tuesday that an anonymous party had shown interest in building a new motel on Hwy 90 in Waveland.

Mrs. William Frisbie of Dantagnan Realty told the aldermen that a client who preferred at this time to remain anonymous had made inquiries whether the city of Waveland would be receptive to such a venture and could furnish water and sewer service.

The motel would contain around 60 rooms and include restaurant facilities, according to Mrs. Frisbie.

City engineer Clarence Evans said Wednesday that he had assured Mrs. Frisbie that the city would extend existing sewer and water lines to meet the property that her client was interested in. That he foresaw no problem there.

Evans said that the property was located on the Northwest corner of the intersection of Hwy 90 and McLaurin Ave. across from Stuckey's in Waveland.

Aldermen were very enthusiastic Tuesday night over the possibility of new business coming into the area.

"Of course we're all gung ho," said alderman Dan Campion, "any business at all, we're all for it."

Campion said that the board was told that the builder was anxious to purchase the property before the end of the year, but there was no comment as to how soon construction would begin.

School Construction Cost May Hit $2 Million

Hancock County School Board members were told Tuesday that construction needs of the county's three schools could run as high as $2 million.

Architect Fred Wagner, who has served as a general advisor since 1962, said that "we are about to get ourselves into a bind here."

Wagner told the board that it was looking at a one and a half million dollar construction bond issue "without even considering a new gym here at North Central School."

Wagner also recommended that the board build a new food service building at a cost of around $260,000 at Hancock North Central to serve the 980 children in the existing and proposed elementary buildings.

He recommended that the board build the proposed South Central High School with the understanding that it is not a complete high school, he said, to add specialized facilities such as home economics, art, music, office suites and complete athletic facilities.

Wagner presented members of the board with a written report which detailed current future needs of the three schools, and which galvanized recent suggestions by different board members. He said that he prepared a written report to avoid the problems that could result from "jumping back and forth."

Specific recommendations in the report included the suggestion that the board make it a firm policy not to enlarge Hancock North Central School beyond a future seven classrooms with a maximum attendance of 1500 and not to enlarge Charles B. Murphy School beyond four new classrooms for a total potential enrollment of 560 students.

Cost of the new school as now planned, he said, was around $810,000. He also recommended that the board build a new food service building similar to the one proposed for North Central.

In other action the board delayed taking up a controversy over bids or a sewage treatment facility at Hancock North Central, and scheduled a special meeting Saturday morning to take up the question.

Waveland contractor Terry Feeny is seeking to have a contract awarded to H.R. Morgan Company of Petal, Mississippi overturned because his bid was $310 higher than his own.

THE 'SILVER BOWL'—Mississippi governor Bill Waller made an appearance at a different kind of bowl Tuesday night, as he deposited a personal check into a silver punch bowl at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi. The occasion was a fund raising dinner on behalf of St. Stanislaus College for the Bay St. Louis School. (Photo by Dan Barber)

Funds Provided For Medical Review Board

Leaders of the Mississippi State Medical Association and Mississippi Foundation for Medical Care announced today a grant award from the Mississippi Regional Medical Program in the amount of $24,000 to begin initial planning of a physician sponsored Professional Standards Review Organization for Mississippi.

Dr. Arthur A. Derrick of Durant and Dr. James O. Gilmore of Oxford, president and board chairman respectively of the Mississippi State Medical Association, and Dr. J.T. Davis of Corinth, president of the Mississippi Foundation for Medical Care, in a joint announcement stated that, "the grant award would be used to begin implementation of a Professional Standards Review Organization for Mississippi as provided under Public Law 92-603, which was passed by the Congress last year.

"Under that law," Drs. Derrick, Gilmore, and Davis noted, "Professional Standards Review Organizations will be sponsored and conducted by practicing physicians in each state and will have the responsibility to review all medical services provided under the Medicare and Medicaid programs as to their quality, necessity, and appropriateness."

"The Professional Standards Review Program will be similar in content to review programs conducted by practicing physicians over the country for the past several years," the physicians stated, "and it will reflect the medical profession's desire to assure the best and most economical medical care possible for their patients by continually reviewing medical services and keeping abreast of new developments in medical science."

Professional Standards Review Organizations, popularly called PSROs, will gradually assume all medical review functions presently required by the Medicare and Medicaid programs. PSROs are to be sponsored by non-profit professional organizations composed of physicians and open to all licensed physicians. The Mississippi Foundation for Medical Care was organized by the Mississippi State Medical Association and instructed by the association's governing body at its annual meeting in May of this year to implement PSRO in Mississippi.

Ladner Cited For Space Station Work

A former Hattiesburg, Miss., man has been cited for the role played in the Skylab space station program of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

He is James Ladner, now of Huntsville, a physicist at the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center, the organization responsible for the development of Skylab.

Ladner received the "Director's Commendation" from the Marshall Center's director, Dr. Rocco A. Petrone.

Ladner, who has worked at the Center since July 1961, graduated from Hattiesburg High School in 1956 and received his bachelor's degree in mathematics and physics at the University of Southern Mississippi.

He is the son of D.L. Ladner of Hattiesburg, formerly of Bay St. Louis, and is married to the former Elizabeth Kisner. They have three children, Ken 11, Mike 10 and Donna 5.

FBI Training Schools Underway In Waveland

A series of law enforcement training schools conducted by Federal Bureau of Investigation instructors is in progress in Waveland, sponsored by that city's police department.

Two classes of the series were completed in November and slated for this month are a finger printing class under Lou Bullard, FBI agent from Pascagoula, a marksman's pistol firing session under the instruction of Joe Eastburn at the Bully Zengarling Firing Range, a course in handling physical evidence under Ross Rayburn, Harrison City, FBI agent and law enforcement legal matters, under Ed O'Neal of Jackson.

In addition, a defensive tactics course will be conducted by Norman Stutte, Jackson agent, in the Waveland fire station. Attending the schools are all police personnel from Waveland as well as several from the Hancock sheriff and Bay police departments.

spending three or four years on duty. They simply feel that is too much time for military service. Now these people can gain the experiences and benefits of Army travel and training and only commit themselves for two years.

The benefits of an Army stint — or a career, for that matter — are not to be sneezed at. Starting pay is now up to $326.10 a month, and after four months of training, the pay jumps to $363.30. Add to that free housing, clothing, food, medical care and 30 days paid vacation, and the package is tough to beat.

As for job training, it is the finest available, in all fields of administration, aircraft maintenance, chemistry, engineering, electronics, communications, data processing, heavy equipment operation and maintenance, finance, food service, intelligence, law enforcement, medical care and treatment, metal working, motor transport, surveying and many other areas.

Local Army representatives are available to discuss the new two-year option and other Army opportunities in nearly every town in the Mid-South. Their telephone numbers are listed in the White and Yellow Pages.

FREE DOGS AT POUND
Waveland dog pound open from 2 to 4 p.m. Sundays, has a number of healthy dogs available for adoption. Among them are two wire-haired terriers and a Scottish terrier.

Dogs are free. The pound can be reached by traveling Waveland Avenue east to Spruce Street, marker then turn at marker. Road is in good condition and gate will be open.

Episcopal High Students Win Voice Of Democracy Contest

Regina Casteln, a 15-year-old junior at Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian, won the first place gold medal

Morreale To Address LSUNO Grads

Gregory Morreale was selected by faculty and staff of Louisiana State Univ. in New Orleans to address over 300 graduating seniors December 2, Honors Day, at LSUNO. Mr. Morreale discussed education in general and the place and role of the male in elementary education. He emphasized the important responsibilities of the elementary teacher today and their relationship with children.

He also emphasized the ever increasing need of the male figure in the elementary school system.

Mr. Morreale will be doing his practice teaching in the New Orleans school district after the Christmas holidays.

in the city's annual Voice of Democracy Contest sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5931, Pass Christian.

The awards were presented at a banquet held Thursday night at the VFW Hall in the Pass.

The topic for the annual script writing contest this year was "My Responsibility as a Citizen."

Besides the gold medal, Miss Casteln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Casteln of Pass Christian, received a $50 savings bond and a certificate. She will be entered in district competition at Biloxi on December 14.

She is a member of the National Honor Society at Coast Episcopal High School and serves as president of the Episcopal Young Churchmen of Christ Church in Bay St. Louis. She is also a member of the school's annual staff.

Anne E. Luck, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Luck of Pass Christian, was awarded the second place silver medal and third place winner was Steven Lee Herring, 16, son of Mrs. Joan R. Herring, Long Beach and

District winners will go to the state competition and the winner of the state competition will receive a $250 scholarship and a five-day, expense-paid trip to national competition in Washington D.C. A total of $22,500 in scholarships will be awarded in the national competition.

Judges for the contest were Brig. Gen. (USA ret.) Howard Haines of Pass Christian; William Carlin of Litter Industries; Long Beach and Joseph F. Davis, VFW Post 5931 adjutant, Pass Christian.

Chairmen for the banquet were Kenneth Bloom, Post 5931, and Mrs. Edith Tabor for the Post Auxiliary. Post Commander John Botos welcomed the guests who included District 1 VFW Post chairman, Anthony Anselmo, Biloxi Post 2434, and Mrs. Violet Maxwell, Auxiliary Post 3937, Long Beach.

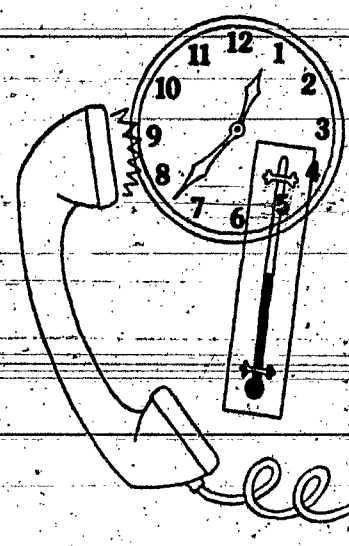

The invocation and benediction were given by James R. Goulding, post chaplain.

WAVELAND Police officer Terry Holmes has recently completed two special law enforcement training schools at the Highway Safety Patrol Training Academy in Jackson.

The first course was in Implied Consent and was a week-long course. The second school, of two-weeks duration was Advanced Criminal Investigation and FBI Training in advanced burglary investigation.

Pollution Merry-Go-Round

By Dan Barber
Echo Staff Writer

"The Problems We Face: A Closer Look at Pollution in Hancock County."

(Ed. Note: This is the second in a series of in-depth studies on the current pollution and sewerage control problems facing the three Gulf Coast counties, with particular emphasis on Hancock County.)

Pollution as a household word has only recently come into its own. Before all the mania about pollution, no one ever really cared about fouling up the water or the air as long as it didn't become bothersome.

Now pollution has become 'bothersome.' It has become a problem that a great number of brains and environmentalists have devoted a great number of words and time to. It touches all of us, and for awhile it's going to sit hard on a lot of people in Hancock County, Mississippi.

Up until the year 1966 waste disposal wasn't much of a problem in the narrower region of Bay St. Louis. People just got rid of their waste via septic tanks or raw sewage was emptied into the Bay. As the population grew though, it was decided that a better method might benefit all the citizens. Thus the city obtained partial federal funding to construct what is known as an oxidation pond or a sewage lagoon.

Now, barely eight years later, the lagoon is out of date. It no longer meets new federal standards. In the words of former utility commissioner Bill Frisbie, "Strangely at that time we were told that a sewage lagoon would serve our needs. Now you can't get funding anymore for a lagoon system."

So the rush is on. The city and the county as a whole have until 1978 to come up with plans for a new sewage collection and treatment facility.

The lagoon is a primary treatment facility which depends on aerobic bacteria to break down waste materials before they are discharged into nearby Watts Bayou and ultimately into the Jordan River and the Bay.

The lagoon depends on a precarious biological balance between algae and the bacteria that act upon the waste. If this balance becomes upset you have some of the resulting problems that people begin to notice, like smell and high Bod counts.

In the summer, the algae grows, blooms and dies. Windless days can cause the odor to build fast. Not as noticeable but more of a problem is whether you are getting adequate decomposition—which means that the Bod count of the effluent is at an acceptable level. The waste material in the lagoon must decompose properly or the pond will become 'septic' and you begin to get raw sewage pouring out. Fish kills are caused by suffocation. If waste material does not decompose completely then a great deal of oxygen is pulled out of the pond which the bacteria also rely on to exist.

The pond serves approximately 5000 people out of a total population of around 6700. It was constructed to accommodate as many as 12,000 people and some engineers have theorized that the system is not performing at its most efficient level because it is 'under' loaded. Those who are presently served by the pond discharge sewage through gravity flow lines to collection points across the city. Fourteen lift stations force pump the sewage through 10-inch cast iron lines into the number one lift station where it is then pumped to a splitter box before emptying into the pond.

The pond itself covers 43 acres and has an average depth of five feet. The outflow from the pond goes through an outflow box where it is treated with chlorine before emptying into Watts Bayou just off Henderson St. in Waveland.

Eventually the pond will have to be abandoned, but it will be at least another year before this happens and many more decisions will have to be made before that time to keep one step ahead of the 'feds.'

What Would You Like To Know...

About Your City?

Members of the Bay St. Louis City Council have expressed a desire for local citizens to become better informed of the affairs of their community and the workings of their city government.

Questions concerning the tax structure or assessments, city operating costs, areas of income and disbursement of funds and any other of a reasonable nature will be answered by council members in a new series starting this week in the Echo.

In cooperation with the city council, the Echo will publish each week a questionnaire which can be clipped out and mailed or brought in person to City Hall. Questions submitted will be answered the following week and as much in formation as possible on the subject will be supplied by whichever council member appropriate. While the council would prefer that the correspondent identify himself, names are not necessary and any question of a reasonable nature will be answered.

Readers are reminded that questionnaires must be submitted to City Hall, not the Echo.

Dear Sir:
One of our citizens wants to know if there is a municipal ordinance against having livestock and poultry in the city limits.

Ordinance 184-A reads as follows: "No person...shall raise, have or keep any fowls, animals...livestock...within the city limits...within 300 feet of the residence of any other person, who shall complain in writing to the Mayor and Board of Commissioners requesting that such fowl, animal, livestock...etc., be removed from the premises..."

In other words, if the complaining party lives within 300 feet of the premises on which the livestock is located and if the complaining party wishes the livestock or fowl to be removed then a written request must be made to the city council for such removal.

Very sincerely,
Warren Carver, Mayor.

A Different Approach

There are so many campaigns by voluntary health agencies that it is hard to tell one from another, but the Mississippi Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, is currently staging a drive that is somewhat unique: It is not asking for money, only for a chance to explain to the public just how serious a problem MS is, both to the individual and to the community.

An estimated 500,000 Americans and millions more around the world are afflicted with multiple sclerosis and other closely related disorders. MS is a usually progressive, debilitating disease of the central nervous system that all too often strikes during a person's most creative years—between the ages of 20 and 40—and it is one we should be aware of.

In the last 27 years, for instance, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has allocated more than $22 million in research grants and fellowships, and millions more for patient services. Today, such noted scientists as Dr. Jonas Salk who developed the anti-polio vaccine, believe the time is at hand for solving the mystery of MS.

The Mississippi Chapter of the National Society is now conducting an educational campaign to inform as many people as possible about the tragic dimensions of this crippling disease. It might be well to listen.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

"Better watch out."

Better be good, Santa Claus is coming to town!"

We often wonder if that good advice ever impressed a single kid. Small children are like little animals, chiefly impressed by affairs of the stomach and especially free from worry about what's going to happen tomorrow, and we never knew one of them who cared what happened to Santa so long as he or she got something good to eat or play with.

Not that they are too far removed from adults in that respect, as the current energy crisis is demonstrating. It's little short of amazing the way grown-ups are acting under stress. First of all, for years nobody worried for a minute about the possibility of a fuel shortage. Fuel was something we'd always had, it was as natural as cold potatoes, so nobody did a thing about it although it was as clear as daylight that it wasn't going to last forever. Then suddenly we found that Santa wasn't going to come this Christmas with a billion barrels of oil. The friendly Arabs triggered this discovery, just like little kids who had been yelling "gimme" for years, refusing to share when the going got tough.

Then, right here at home, it was as if somebody had opened a can of worms. Federal and local governments clamped on fuel-saving regulations, and immediately everybody hollered that Santa was going him dirt and you never saw such universal running for cover. It was like a chicken yard when a hawk suddenly appears. Then as the first shock wave of the cutbacks passed and people regained a little normalcy, it was discovered that while some folks were badly hit, others would derive a benefit or two from the shortage: the lower speed limit would cut down on accidents and save many lives on the road, physicians agreed that the lower heat in homes would be beneficial to health, banks looked for an overall increase in savings, accounts, passenger trains got a reprieve from slow extinction, and permanent daylight saving would result in earlier and bigger farm crops and might reduce the cost of food.

But the most unusual result of the shortage crisis was the promptness and energy with which it was met. People and officials alike jumped into action on the new problem almost as if they were glad to have something new to combat after wearisome months of political scandals. Here was something that every man and woman could take a personal part in right away; the congress was shaken out of its political drowsiness and forced into doing something without months of speech-making. It was as if the people suddenly had re-asserted themselves.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:
We have a home on the Gainesville Rd., just off the Lower Bay Road, and for many a year we have suffered with poor drainage ditches and a mud road covered with water after a rainfall.

Many times we have asked for help but not too much was received until recently when Mr. Jerry Ladner and his crew came by to help us out. Some red clay gravel was hauled in, ditches opened and now he is in the process of covering the road with oyster shells. We just want to publicly thank him for what he has done so far.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Andrews

P.S. We enjoy the Echo very much. Thank you, and we would appreciate it if you would publish this letter for us. Thanks.

Veterans Information

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—About six months ago, the Veterans Administration issued me a Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance (SDVI) policy. Does this policy pay dividends?

A—No. Dividends are payable only on National Service Life Insurance and U. S. Government Life Insurance policies with "V" or "K" prefixed policy numbers.

Q—As a World War I veterans, drawing compensation from the Veterans Administration for a service connected disability, am I eligible for a $2,800 automobile allowance?

A—No. This benefit is restricted by law to eligible veterans of World War II, Korean Conflict, Post Korean Period, Vietnam Era and servicemen currently on active duty.

Q—Do persons 72 years old or more who draw pensions from the Veterans Administration have to file annual income questionnaires?

A—No. But while a recent law excludes these pensioners who have been on the rolls during two consecutive years from filing questionnaires, they still must report changes in income.

SELECTING A CHRISTMAS TREE AND CARING FOR IT

Selecting the right Christmas tree is a highlight of the holiday season for many families. It will be an easier and more satisfying experience if you know the features that indicate a good tree and how to select and maintain its freshness.

Selecting the right tree for you will be easier if you follow a few simple procedures:

— Before you buy your tree, decide where in your home you will display your tree. Then, you can determine height and width of the tree that you will need.

— Select a tree that is the right height and width for the space available. Cutting off large parts of the tree to make it fit a particular space will usually alter the shape and appearance of the tree.

— Freshness is very important when selecting a tree. The needles should be resilient, but not brittle. Feel the needles; they should adhere to the twig. — Shake the tree and bounce the butt of the tree on the ground. If only a few needles drop off, the tree is probably fresh and will stay fresh if properly cared for.

— The branches should be strong enough to hold the ornaments and strings of electric lights that you have in mind for the tree.

— Check the tree again for the proper color, freshness, shape and size desired. The care you give your tree after you bring it home is most important.

Maintain the freshness and attractiveness of your tree by following these suggestions:

— Store the tree outside until you plan to decorate it. Cut the butt off the tree at a diagonal about one inch above the original cut. This opens the pores of the wood and aides in the absorption of water. Place the butt end in water.

— When you bring the tree inside, cut the butt of the tree off square. This makes it easier to secure the tree in a stand.

— Keep the butt end of the tree in water while it is in the house. Refill the container with water every day. Sprinkling water on the foliage before the tree is decorated will help keep it fresh.

— Be sure the base of the tree is firmly supported and located away from fireplaces, radiators, and other sources of heat such as televisions, etc.

— Never use lighted candles on a Christmas tree or use an open flame near the tree.

— Never leave your home with the Christmas tree lights still on.

— The longer the tree is indoors, the more combustible it will become. Check electric light cords for defects that could lead to a fire. Avoid use of combustible decorations.

These selection procedures and maintenance measures should insure an attractive tree for more than a week and a holiday season free of mishaps.

With our current emphasis on fuel conservation it is important to light the tree only when the family is in the room to enjoy it.

ONE MORE TIME
In a sense, December is going to be a month for making up lost time.

If all goes according to projection, year-round Daylight Savings Time will be enacted into law and put into effect sometime before Christmas. The sole purpose, of course, is to conserve daylight hours so that we can conserve our dwindling energy supplies.

The House of Representatives approved the measure last week by a vote of 311-88. The Senate probably has passed a similar bill by now, paving the way for the President's signature.

Under the House version of the bill, clocks would be set ahead one hour at 2 a.m. on the first Sunday following 15 days after enactment of the bill into law. The same clocks were turned back one hour on Oct. 28 as we went from Daylight Savings Time to Standard Time.

Year-round Daylight Savings Time was used during World War II to conserve energy for defense needs. Although no studies have been made to determine just how much energy we saved during that war, there are estimates on Capitol Hill that Daylight Savings Time will reduce electricity and heating demands this winter by as much as three per cent in some areas of the country.

That probably doesn't seem like much, but combined with other energy-saving steps it will help us through the most severe energy shortage in our nation's history. I emphasize the word "severe" because many Americans still refuse to believe that we actually have a crisis.

In the simplest terms, there is a crisis—and it is very real.

While a year-round program of Daylight Savings Time will unquestionably help conserve energy, such a program also has its drawbacks. Opponents of the bill argued that children would be forced to wait in the dark for school buses and that farmers could not work in the field until the sun dries the dew.

"The sun comes up at the same time regardless of what gimmick we pull," was the way one opponent put it.

Supporters of the measure countered with the argument that it would cut down on traffic accidents and crime caused by early afternoon winter darkness and would spread the peak load on electrical generators throughout the day so less capacity would be needed.

Besides, they said, Americans could save some $600 million on electric bills if it were in effect all year long.

The pro-and-con arguments could go on and on, but a look at some of the positive effects of the bill could help so the sting felt by those opposed to Daylight Savings Time.

Available traffic safety statistics suggest that the institution of year-round Daylight Savings Time would decrease the number of motor vehicle fatalities and serious accidents. Statistics also verify the fact that drivers tend to be more fatigued in the evening than in the morning.

To meet the problem of children having to go to school in the early morning darkness, one solution would be to adjust school hours during the winter months. School could start at nine o'clock instead of eight.

Another way of looking at it is that at least we will be operating on a single time plan 12 months a year. There will be no switching back and forth.

It no longer is a question of whether or not we like it. Daylight Savings Time is another step in the drive to conserve energy.

The Recomputation of Retired Military Pay Bill has suffered a serious setback. The amendment proposed by Sen. Bance Hartke of Indiana was deleted at the insistence of The House Armed Services Committee Chairman, F. Edward Hebert (Dem-La.) and Congressman Samuel Stratton (Dem-N.Y.). The Administration still has its own proposal before Congress but the chances of getting it by the opposition of Congressman Hebert are non-existent. It is nice to know that 900,000 retired Veterans, who retired before Jan. 1, 1972, have a chairman of the powerful Armed Services Committee who have the financial interest of the retired Veteran so much at heart.

In case a retired Veteran would like to drop a line of thanks to some of those who tried so hard to help the retirees, write to the following Senators: John Tower (R-Tex.); Howard W. Cannon (D-Nev.); Peter V. Domenici (R-N.M.) and Peter H. Dominick (R-Col.) In the House of Representatives write Representatives Richard Fulton (D-Tenn.) Henry B. Gonzalez (D-Tex.) Robert H. Rose (D-N.J.) and Majorie S. Holt (R-Md.).

The above list of Congressmen is by no means all of those who were in favor of the Recomputation Bill but it only took two to prevent the passage of the bill.

The Survivors Benefit Plan deadline date for sign up has been extended six months for those who retired before Sept. 20, 1972. This appears to be a good plan for many and especially for those who retired before Jan. 1, 1967 or shortly thereafter, before they had accrued a sizeable amount of Social Security from military pay while in service. Call 467-5404 if you have any questions concerning this bill.

Thirty states are now set to observe Veterans Day on Nov. the eleventh. The four newest states to change were Louisiana, South Carolina, Idaho and Kansas. Mississippi had agreed to make the change sometime ago. All veterans who have not joined one of the service organizations should do so. The monthly magazine that each of them publishes will keep you informed on the latest changes and proposed changes in Veterans Benefits. The American Legion and The Veterans of Foreign Wars both have a very nice magazine.

The U.S. Veterans population presently consists of approximately 23 million men and women who have served in the United States Armed Forces during periods of national emergency. There are still approximately 3,000 Spanish-American War Veterans, and that was from Apr. 21, 1898 until July 4, 1902.

VETERANS! Ask yourself this question. In the event of my death, would my survivors know what benefits they were entitled to and do I have all the necessary papers in a place where they can find them? Why not take care of that today and then talk it over with those concerned?

For those veterans or dependents who fill out their won-Income Questionnaire card, here are some of the most common mistakes that are made: 1. Incorrect number of children. 2. Your home is listed as an asset. 3. Social Security received by children is listed as income and the amount of your V.A. Pension is listed as income. 4. Medicare payments are deducted and are not shown as income, which they are. 5. Be sure to not use "Ditto" marks. If the answer is "none" use none or "0".

FERTILIZER

Fertilizer is short! Buy your estimated needs anytime you can find them now until spring.

Have your soil tested. Apply lime where the test shows a need and make the best possible use of the fertilizer you can get. If the soil test shows medium or above in phosphate and potash, you are not likely to lose much yield by leaving off these two materials.

Liming all soils that test acid will increase the efficiency of the fertilizer you use.

Plant legumes in your grass pastures. Early December is not too late to plant winter legumes.

Use barnyard manure or chicken litter to supplement or substitute for commercial fertilizers. Four to five tons per acre disked or plowed in is usually enough.

Basic slag plus potash will supply phosphate, potash and is a 60 percent liming material.

For your nitrogen fertilizer remember that anhydrous ammonia and urea are more plentiful than ammonium nitrate.

HOME GARDENING

Get those dead plants out of your home garden. They could cause you more trouble next year from diseases and insects.

Take up the bean and tomato stakes. Clean them up and store them for next year's garden.

Get some rows ready for January planting of English peas, Irish potatoes, onions, lettuce and some leafy green. Sure you are taking a chance in the January planting, but the results are often well worth the risk.

HARVESTING & STORING RYEGRASS SEED IN MISSISSIPPI
Ryegrass seed prices are expected to be high next year. There is a considerable amount of interest in harvesting ryegrass seed locally this spring; farmers saving their own seed. Our demand for ryegrass seed is considerable. Mississippi will plant approximately 12 million pounds of ryegrass annually. At present demand and expected prices this amounts to some $3 to $4 million for ryegrass seed. These are some facts to consider in harvesting seed.

Yields in Mississippi will be lower than the yields in the Pacific Northwest, at best 400 to 600 pounds per acre and maybe as low as 200 pounds per acre. (This, along with low prices, is a major reason why we haven't been in the ryegrass seed business in the past.)

Seed will mature in late May or early June. This might be an important consideration where farmers plan to plant a row crop following ryegrass.

For maximum seed yields, if grass is being grazed, remove cattle by March 1, if possible, no later than March 15, and topdress ryegrass with 70 to 80 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre at that time. Reduce seed yields can be obtained by grazing as late as April 10.

PROOFS NEEDED TO CLAIM RETIREMENT BENEFITS ON YOUR OWN RECORD

Retirement benefits are payable beginning at age 62, so proof of age is needed. When you file, you must bring with you papers or documents to prove your age. Other proofs are also needed.

A. Proof of age: Birth certificate or Baptismal record recorded before age 5. Either of these records will establish your date of birth. If neither of these are available, then obtain the next best. Some records which may be used are:

- Birth Certificate recorded after age 5
- Baptismal record recorded after age 5
- Other church record recorded after age 5
- Old family Bible or record (Entries made by parents)
- Census Bureau record
- School records (usually found in county courthouse)
- Old insurance policies showing age or date of birth
- Children's birth records showing age of parents
- Delayed birth certificate (old records may stand alone)
- Marriage record showing age
- Voter record
- Military discharge
- Other records showing age or your date of birth and made early in life.

Remember, records made by parents are generally the best records. They had knowledge of your birth. Records made early in life are also the best.

B. Evidence of wages: Bring your W-2(s) for your wages or your tax returns for self-employment income for the year prior to the year in which you file.

C. Identification: Your social security card

D. Other proof may be needed depending on each individual circumstance.

If you have any questions, contact your social security office in Gulfport. You may call by asking the operator to dial ME-1323. Our mailing address is P.O. Box 6097-Gulfport, MS 39501

Former St. Rose Teacher To Be Ordained

Rev. Kenneth J. Anich, S.V.D., 26, a member of the Society of the Divine Word missionary order, will be ordained December 15 at Divine Word Seminary chapel, Techny, Illinois. Most Rev. Michael Dempsey, Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago will confer Holy Orders.

A Mass of thanksgiving will be said at St. Theresa Church, Eagle, Wisconsin, December 22 at 5 p.m. with a reception and dinner in the church hall afterward.

Father Anich was born in Elkhorn, Wis. He attended St. Theresa grammar school in Eagle, Wis. and entered the Society of the Divine Word at Divine Word Seminary, East Troy, Wis. in 1961. He earned a bachelor of Sociology at Divine Word College, Epworth, Ia. and is presently finishing a Master of Divinity Course at Catholic Theological Union. He will begin a Masters in Music Education at De Paul University in Chicago in 1974. Father Anich has worked with special students in remedial reading, recreation and religious education. He taught music at St. Rose de Lima grade school in Bay St. Louis, and taught music in a summer program at St. Mary's in Houston, Texas. His work extended to North Dakota and Ashbury Park, New Jersey. In early 1974 he will attend a term at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, Ill. along with parish work in Chicago. He expects to be assigned to the northern province of the Divine Word order in the Fall of 1974.

Bible Seminar Open To Public

A seminar of interest to Gulf Coast area residents will take place Thursday, December 6 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 2301 Fifteenth Street, in Gulfport.

Men, women and young people of all Christian communions are welcome to attend. This seminar is sponsored by the Volunteer Activities Department of the American Bible Society, 1665 Broadway, New York City. The theme will be "Let The Word Speak!"

No prior registration or cost is involved in the seminar which is designed to undergird and enrich the effectiveness of individuals engaged in civic and church organizations. Mrs. Andrew Newcomer, who has served with the American Bible Society staff since 1964, and who is currently the National Director for Volunteer Recruitment, will direct the seminar. She will be assisted by volunteers who are participating in the imaginative scripture sharing projects.

All those attending the inspiring seminar will receive attractive selections and portions of scripture publication brought out by the American Bible Society.

Seals And Gifts Support Lung Assn.

Christmas Seal contributions and memorial gifts comprise the sole financial support of the Hancock County Chapter, Mississippi Lung Association, according to Mrs. Elda Duke, Hancock County Chapter president.

Christmas Seal letters were mailed to Hancock County residents recently with a request for a contribution to the association's year-round educational and prevention work in emphysema, tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, air pollution and the hazards of smoking, Mrs. Duke added.

"The association plans to expand its efforts in case-finding, patient services, public and school education, medical education and medical research during the coming year. Increased contributions to this year's campaign will be needed in order to provide these new and urgently needed programs," Mrs. Duke announced.

Proclamation

Whereas the United States is facing a serious energy shortage; and

Whereas President Richard M. Nixon has appealed to all states, to all municipalities and to all citizens to conserve energy wherever possible; and

Whereas it is the desire of Waveland and Bay St. Louis to cooperate as much as possible, the two cities have decided not to use any night Christmas fixtures this year and put up only daytime decorations; and

Whereas the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are aware that the shortage will increase as we move into the colder winter months

The twin cities urge that all citizens in the municipal areas respond to the President's call by reducing all Christmas outdoor lighting to the barest minimum.

This is a challenge for all of us to do just a little bit in this time of national emergency.

Reassurance Calls Comfort Elderly Shut-Ins

Area L Jaycettes have adopted "telephone reassurance" as an areawide community service project, according to Ms. Faye Balckstock, Area L president.

She said the resolution was made at an Ocean Springs meeting on Nov. 13.

Telephone reassurance, a service component of Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District's Areawide Model Project for Older Americans, is a brief daily telephone call to the elderly isolated and homebound to check on their well-being.

Mrs. Dorothy Carballo, volunteer implementor of the program spoke at the meeting, stressing the importance of this valuable service to the elderly. Mrs. Byrd Cassibry, tri-county coordinator of information and referral provided a description of the model project's available services. Older citizens in the area who live alone, are susceptible to sudden illness, crippling shakes and accidents. For them, a telephone call can mean the difference between complete recuperation and chronic disablement, she stated.

The names of potential subscribers for the cost-free service are solicited from churches, visiting nurses, physicians, social workers, housing administrators, friends, neighbors, and relatives. All subscribers are interviewed individually. The interview provides the telephone reassurance program with information on the subscribers health status, the doctors or clinic to contact in the event of an emergency and the individual's permission to enter his home when the volunteer caller is unable to contact them by phone.

Mrs. Carballo, who is unit manager of the business office of South Central Bell, is herself a volunteer. She indicated her complete approval and gratitude of the Jaycettes participation. The Jaycettes have long been avid promoters of community service programs and the adoption of this project in Area L is a first in the state. Mrs. Cassibry said she strongly feels their move will serve as an incentive to other Jaycette organizations in the entire Nation.

Cooper Is March Of Dimes Chairman

Retired industrialist Owen Cooper, of Yazoo City, once again will serve as the state chairman for the March of Dimes in Mississippi.

The purpose of the March of Dimes campaign, conducted each January, is to raise funds for the continuing fight against ravages of birth defects which is waged by The National Foundation. Mississippians contributed more than $486,000 in the campaign last January.

"Under the leadership of Mr. Cooper," said Jim Brown, state director of The National Foundation, "we know that Mississippians once again will respond generously to the March of Dimes.

Cooper retired recently after many years as president of the Mississippi Chemical Corporation and as president of Coastal Chemical Corporation.

He is highly active as a Baptist layman and has been for many years. He is currently serving as president of the Southern Baptist Convention—the highest Southern Baptist Convention post a Baptist layman can hold.

Cooper also has served as president of the Mississippi Baptist Convention; president of the Mississippi State University Alumni Association; president of the state YMCA; president of the Mississippi Economic Council; member of the board of directors of the Bank of Yazoo City; and chairman of the board of Mississippi Blue Cross.

He holds a B.S. Degree in agriculture from Mississippi State University; an M.A. degree in political science from the University of Mississippi; and an LL.D. degree from Mississippi College.

Eggs help put the merry in Christmas.

No other time of the year is quite as special as Christmas. It has a certain magic all its own. It's full of traditions. It's a merry time.

And nothing is more a part of the Christmas tradition than good food. And there's no traditional Christmas dish to match the popularity of eggnog. It's as much a part of the Yuletide season as Santa Claus and mistletoe. And one of the best recipes around for making this long-time holiday favorite is Eggnog Supreme. Try it. And have a Merry Christmas. EGGS. The party food party goes for.

EGGNOG SUPREME

10 eggs, separated
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup dark rum

1 quart heavy cream
(whipping cream)
Nutmeg

Beat egg whites until very soft peaks are formed. Beat yolks until they are just mixed, then begin adding sugar while continuing to beat. Add sugar slowly until it is absorbed; while beating slowly pour into yolk mixture all rum. Whip cream very lightly and stir it into beaten yolks, fold yolk mixture into whites. Top each serving with nutmeg. Makes 12 to 15 servings.

Pulitzer Prize Winner Opens Tonight At Bay Little Theatre

Paul Zindel, author of the prize-winning The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds, comes up with startling titles; witness his novel The Pigman, soon to be released as a movie, and My Darling, My Hamburger, and Miss Reardon Drinks Too Much; his last Broadway success.

Mr. Zindel is an author who speaks to the younger generation and who shows the older generation as a sometimes pitiless and sometimes pitiful lot.

Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds does both. It makes some parents squirm and has tremendous appeal to every teenager who has ever battled with a parent.

Nancy Gex, in her second appearance at the Bay Little Theatre, portrays the frustrated and destructive mother who drives her daughter Kristin, Frankiewicz over the edge of emotional stability and seeks to stifle her creative and brilliant younger daughter, Susan Smith. Terri Hill and Franya Frankiewicz round out the cast as a sadistic teenager and an aged infirmed grandmother.

The play won an off-Broadway OBI, the New York Drama Critics Award and the Pulitzer Prize for 1971. It brought acclaim as well to Sada Thompson, the actress who created the role of Beatrice.

Dress rehearsal last night was open to area students with formal opening tonight. The production will run through Saturday with curtain every evening at 8:15. Tickets can be bought at the door of the theatre on Boardman Ave.

ST. ANN FEAST DAY MASSES
Masses at St. Ann Catholic Church, Clermont Harbor, for the feast of the Immaculate Conception will include a vigil mass at 7 p.m. December 7 and 9 a.m. Mass December 8. Sunday vigil Mass will be at 5 p.m. Saturday and Mass on Sunday at 9:15 a.m.

Olof Huldand of Sweden holds the record for not putting his foot down. He stood on one foot for 5 1/2 hours.

PETER RABBIT, the only male member of the cast of The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds, listens as Susan Smith tells him her troubles. The intense drama dealing with the emotional battles between a mother and her teenage daughters will open Dec. 6 at Bay St. Louis Little Theatre for a three day run.

'Mary, Mary' Next Production At The Beverly

On December 11, the Beverly will preview a new production with Peter Breck starring in "Mary, Mary."

Mr. Breck has starred as Nick Barkley on Big Valley, a television series. In 1967, he was chosen best actor at the Cannes Film Festival for the movie, "Shock Corridor." Also, he was an Emmie nominee for his outstanding performance in the Big Valley episode, "The Night of the Wolf." Peter starred in a movie now in release, "A Man for Hanging," and just recently finished a movie filmed in Dallas, "Bengie," to be released in December.

Mr. Breck has been seen in a number of dramatic series and has made personal appearances on the night club circuit, his most recent appearance at the Oak Club in Houston with his own club act. He has a new record out, "She A Woman."

James Drury, of "The Virginian," fame was to have been the star of the new show, but has just accepted a television series, "The Firehouse." The new TV Series will preview on ABC in January. Mr. Drury will return to Hollywood at the end of the run of "Mary, Mary" at the Beverly Barn Dinner Playhouse in Shreveport.

Bay Student In College Production

Mary Ellen Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Murphy, Sr., 324 Pellicy Street, Bay St. Louis, will play the role of Mrs. Almond in the dramatic production of The Hellress presented by the Barot College Theatre and Dance Department December 6-9.

Mary Ellen is a senior at Barot, a liberal arts college for women located about 25 miles north of Chicago.

Written by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, the play is based on Henry James' well-known novel, Washington Square and is a compelling character study of a shy, unloved girl made bitter by the cruelty of a fortune-seeking suitor and a stern father. Sometimes funny, sometimes poignant, this play is a classic in itself.

Bill Morey, well-known Chicago actor and winner of the Jefferson Award, Chicago's acting award granted each year to local actors, will play the role of the sardonic father. This role was played by Basil Rathbone in New York and by Ralph Richardson in the film version.

INSURANCE SCHOOL
Margaret H. Shodoin, and Jill H. Dolan of the Hancock Insurance Agency in Bay St. Louis, will attend the Mississippi Association of Insurance Agents Commercial Lines School to be held in Jackson December 6 and 7, according to Ned Mitchell, CPCU, Cleveland, Chairman of the MAIA Education Committee.

The school for insurance agents and their office personnel will be conducted by John P. Hanna, CPCU, Supervisor, Agent Education and Dr. Charles Divoky of the Safeco Insurance Company of Seattle, Washington.

Mississippi Trio First In New Army Program

Three Mississippi ladies — Penny Woods of Jackson, Jeanette Darnell of Ackerman and Jackie Glass of Waynesboro — have become the first women enlisted into the U. S. Army's "Stripes for Skills" program. They took their oath at the Jackson Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station.

Under the new program, high school graduates who are qualified in critical skills required by the Army, are enlisted as private's first class, by-passing private E-1 and E-2.

Then, following successful completion of advanced training, they are promoted to the rank of Sergeant E-5. Upon demonstrating satisfactory job performance, they may be promoted to Staff Sergeant E-6 within two years after entering service without regard to time in grade or time in service requirements.

In the cases of the three Mississippi ladies, Ms. Woods is an operating room technician trained at University of Mississippi Medical School who was working at Doctors' Hospital; both Ms. Darnell and Ms. Glass are licensed practical nurses trained at Mattie Hersey Nursing School of Meridian.

The new program allows the Army to compete with private business and industry for skilled persons, explained Master Sergeant John Griffith, commander of Jackson-area Army recruiting.

"Now we can compete on a salary plus benefits scale," said Sergeant Griffith. "In fact, we top most industry in this area. A Sergeant E-5 will get about $410 a month, plus free housing, clothing, food, medical care and 30-days paid vacation. If he's married, that means a couple of hundred extra dollars."

"And this program covers a lot more than medical trainees, too. We can give the same kind of deal to young men and women with a wide variety of skills. Anyone who's interested should contact the local Army representative for more information."

Three Year Enlistment Offered By Natnl. Guard

A new Mississippi Army National Guard recruiting program, which allows young men to serve three years with a unit, is being offered through the Bay St. Louis unit, according to 1LT C.J. Ladner, commander of Det. 1, 135th Trans Co. (Lt Amph).

LT Ladner said the new Guard program, called "three-plus-three," offers young men, without prior military service, the option of enlisting for three years in a Guard unit. The remaining three years of the individuals' Guard obligation would be in an inactive status, requiring no participation in army activities.

The Mississippi Army National Guard has been chosen to participate in the program for a limited period of time.

Young men with no prior service spend four months in training on an Army post, learning to be an Amphibian Operator. Upon returning home, the new Guardsmen continue their service with their Guard units.

The National Guard also offers benefits such as special life insurance programs, state income tax exemption for Guard pay up to $5,000, retirement benefits, opportunity for commission and others.

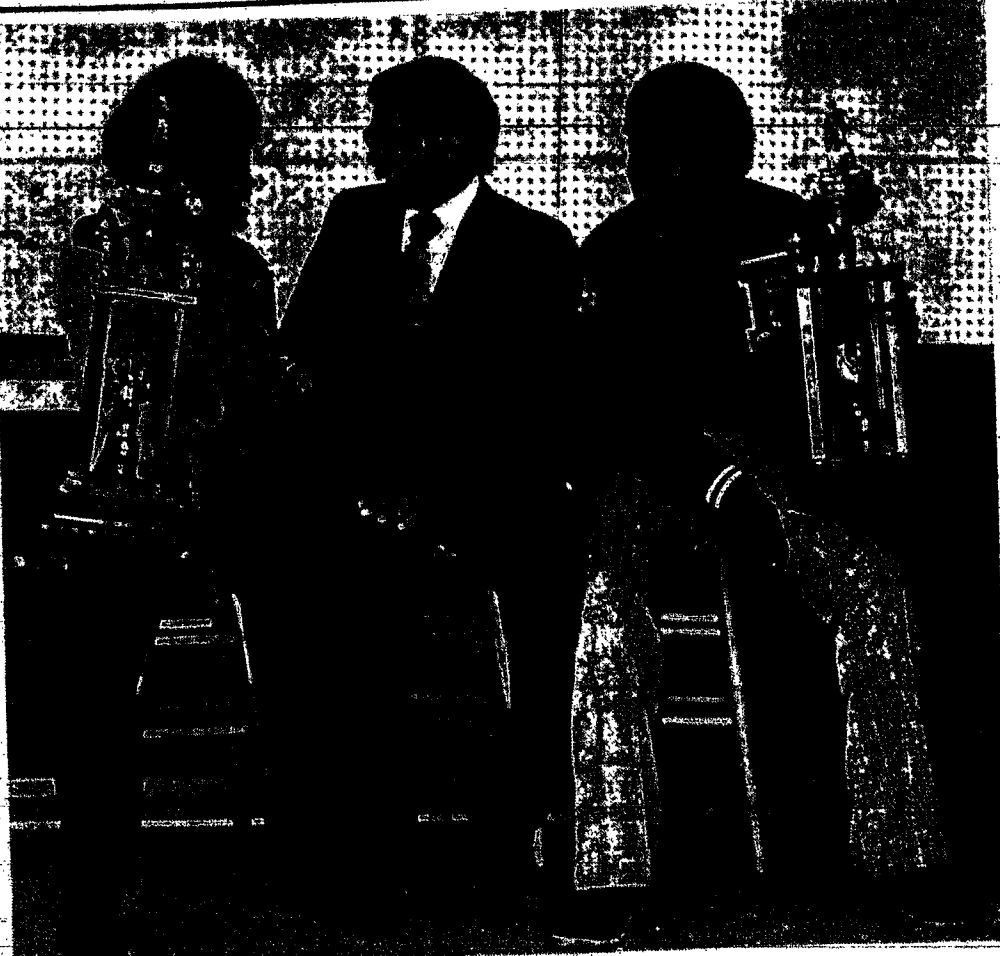

For further information on the "three-plus-three" program, contact SSG Samuel A. Cuevas at the Bay St. Louis Armory. The phone number is 467-4681.

Food Stamp Allotments Upped

Low-income people on the food stamp program will be given increases in their allotments beginning Jan. 1, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS).

The hikes will be made in accordance with the amendments of the Food Stamp Act in the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973. The amendments required that coupon allotments be adjusted semiannually to reflect changes in prices of food as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

At the same time, USDA officials said, most families on the food stamp program will be allowed to earn larger incomes and still qualify for the food stamp program.

Bowser was recipient of the Most Valuable Lineman Trophy and Swanner the Most Valuable Back Trophy. Both awards were presented by the Turkey Bowl Committee after the game in which the Pass High Pirates trounced the Ocean Springs Greyhounds 28-8.

Dropouts Can Get GI Bill Benefits

High school dropouts who detoured through military service enroute to college have a GI Bill benefit that wasn't available to their fathers after World War II. And they are using it in record numbers, Merlyn J. Cook, Assistant Center Director for the Regional Office, said today.

In addition to the 36-months of college assistance Vietnam veterans earn with as little as 18 months service, they can receive GI Bill payments for the additional months that might be necessary to complete high school or take additional courses needed to meet college entrance requirements. These additional "free entitlement" months can be used without depleting the basic 36-months eligibility needed for four college years.

During fiscal year 1973, there were 129,980 veterans and servicemen, who had used free entitlement, were enrolled in college. This is almost double the number enrolled during the previous year.

To date, 195,653 veterans and servicemen have used the benefit, and nearly 70 percent were still in training during the last fiscal year.

Cook attributes part of the success of the program to the intensive "outreach" program launched in 1969 to encourage veterans to take advantage of their benefits. The program, which focuses on the socially and economically disadvantaged veteran, utilizes predischARGE counseling, follow-up letters to home addresses, telephone calls and personal visits.

Ex-servicemen who were discharged after the Korean Conflict are encouraged to get VA counseling on how they can get VA checks of $220 per month (more if they have dependents) for a period which in some cases is double the time they spent in service.

MARINE Ronald E. Mims, son of Mrs. Annie M. Frazer of Pearlington, graduated last week from basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

Six Counties Cited For MERIT

Six Mississippi counties — Clay, Forrest, Hancock, Leflore, Sunflower, and Yazoo — have earned awards in the Mississippi Economic Council's MERIT program for county development within the past few weeks, with Leflore earning two awards and Yazoo County earning the program's first Beautification plaque.

In announcing the MERIT honors, MERIT chairman Jack E. Harper, Jr. of Indianola said the Council is "proud of the work of all 53 counties in the program. These six counties are proving that MERIT goals are attainable and are practical in the operation of any county. We are sure that other counties in the program, when they finish initial scoring, will find that they, too, have earned awards in MERIT."

The Hancock County MERIT program is sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, E. J. Marengo, chairman. MERIT chairman is Perry F. Gibson, and P.D. Bailey is Law Enforcement chairman.

Fairconnetue

Completes Basic

Army private Raymond B. Fairconnetue, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Fairconnetue, Route 1, Bay St. Louis, completed eight weeks of basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and army history and traditions.

Poplarville Bank Merges With Hancock Bank

Lee W. White, president of the Bank of Commerce in Poplarville and Leo W. Seal, Jr., president of the Hancock Bank, jointly announced the merger of the two south Mississippi banks as of the close of business on November 30, 1973. The Bank of Commerce will operate as a division of the Hancock Bank with White continuing to serve as division president.

According to Seal the merger will provide even better banking service to the three Coast counties with particular opportunities for further growth and service to the northern halves of Hancock and Pearl River Counties, one of Mississippi's most prominent areas in the production of cattle and agricultural commodities.

He said the combined resources of the merged banks will prove beneficial to the banking public in this region and will enhance the progressive development of South Mississippi. The merger brings together two well established enterprises. The Bank of Commerce opened for business on January 3, 1914 and currently has resources in excess of $13 million. The Hancock Bank with over $137 million in resources began on October 6, 1899 in Bay St. Louis.

White said, "Through the years both banks have maintained a sound banking philosophy with emphasis on service to the public. The traditional similarities of the two banks make our consolidation and future operation very compatible and in the best interest of our stockholders as well as our customers."

Survivor Benefits Should Be Told

The Veterans Administration urges veterans who haven't done so to "advise survivors of benefits they're entitled to from the agency in event of your death."

Merlyn J. Cook, VA Assistant Center Director for the Regional Office, emphasized that "failure to do so could cause undue anguish during times of great emotional stress."

"It's a good idea for veteran and spouse to sit down and openly discuss important family matters, including locations of family documents, which would facilitate filing of claims for VA benefits," he further suggested.

Such documents as military discharge papers, divorce decrees, guardianship or child custody evidence, birth, marriage and death certificates should be kept safe from fire and theft, yet readily accessible.

Tips To Save Gas

With gasoline rationing apparently just around the corner, it could pay to start practicing now on ways of driving to get the most miles per gallon.

GAS USAGE

Experts list many small things you can do to reduce gasoline usage. Added up, they can save you substantial amounts of money over the course of a year. Probably the most important single way to economize is to avoid speeds over 50 miles an hour. Figures below, from actual road tests by the U.S. Department of Transportation, show gas mileages for a 3,000-pound car at various speeds:

SPEED	GASOLINE MILEAGE
30 miles per hour	15.61 miles per gallon
40 miles per hour	14.89 miles per gallon
50 miles per hour	16.98 miles per gallon
60 miles per hour	13.67 miles per gallon
70 miles per hour	11.08 miles per gallon

Note that dawdling at very slow speeds does not increase mileage.

OTHER ECONOMIES

These additional tips on saving gasoline come from the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association and American Automobile Association:

- Jackrabbit starts and sudden stops can cost 2 miles per gallon. Try to maintain a fairly constant speed and minimize starts and stops.
- Long warm-ups of the engine should be avoided—they waste gas.
- Follow, as far as possible, the manufacturer's recommendations on tune-ups. Replacing worn spark plugs alone can improve gas economy 6 per cent.
- Reduce use of power equipment, such as fan-blowers, as much as possible.
- Buying higher-octane fuel than is needed is wasteful. Most American automobiles made since 1971 are built to run on regular-grade gas.
- Underinflated tires and improper front wheel alignment cut mileage.

That the U.S.S.R. has now surpassed the U.S. in number of missile delivery vehicles, an advantage that is expected to widen over the next five years, as the Soviets increase their forces to the levels permitted by the Interim Agreement and as we continue to phase out some of our older B-52's?

That though the U.S. expects to maintain its lead of strategic offensive warheads over the U.S.S.R. during the next five years the Soviet Union has the potential to overtake us because of the considerably greater payload capacity of their missiles? And that, if during the next few years the Soviets move vigorously into Multiple Independent Reentry Vehicles (MIRV's), our lead in warheads could be greatly narrowed?

That since the Soviet Union with its vast manpower, mighty missile force and powerful new navy, has lessened the military superiority of the United States, our technical expertise must be exploited to the utmost if we are to stem the tide?

That you can get a free reprint of a magazine article about the narrowing gap and what America can and will do about it? It's available by writing to: Reprint Editor, American Defense Preparedness Association, 219 Union Trust Building, Washington, D.C. 20005.

Burk In . . .

"But upon my investigation of this thing," Ladner said, "I find that it's a political thing. The political picture has changed—both local and in the state—and I believe that if these things came out that they have no grip."

"I'm willing to stand on the minutes," he said. "If we've already adopted those contracts after they were proven satisfactory to our attorney, then I'm willing to accept them."

Kidd said that he would like to add one thing. "You can sit down there and wait until money is available and by the time money does become available, you've got 3000 guys underneath who've already gotten their applications in," he said.

"So it's really the guys who've gotten the applications in that when the money does become available it's allocated." The state could show the need for additional funds by the number of requests, he said, rather than wait until 1976 and say to federal agencies "I need X number of dollars."

Kidd said that the state had lost a bundle of money by waiting and taking this particular angle. If you can't get in the front door, he said, then you go in the back door.

It was an absolute necessity, he said, for the city to get this kind of a facility because "we're going to grow and attract people to our area."

"We've been like stepchildren along this Gulf Coast," he said, "and I think if we get our application in and give them the right to deny it, then we can make other arrangements to fund it."

Ladner said that any plans for the pier structure were contingent upon receiving funding anyway.

Councilman Ladner took issue with the mayor. "Well actually so far as saving money I would agree with you, but so far as working with the police court, since the judge is the one who is directly concerned with this, I would think that it would be to the advantage of the judge to have the docket as close as possible to him so that he can keep abreast of the thing. And of course the judge doesn't have an office in the city hall," he said.

No action was taken pending a suggestion by Ladner that the council hear the feelings of city Judge Joseph Benvenuti.

Gas Tax Returns Are Up

Petroleum taxes collected in Mississippi during October increased almost $20,000 over September receipts, and were also up over 13 percent over collections for October, 1972.

Motor Vehicle Comptroller Doxey Fisher said that the October receipts collected by his agency were $10,958,375 compared to $10,938,800 in September and $9,694,915 in October, 1972.

"For the year ending October 31, total collections reached $120,801,290 and represented an increase of almost ten percent over collections of $110,180,669 during the previous 12 months period," said Fisher.

Distribution of the July highway revenues included disbursements to all counties, the highway department, highway bond sinking fund and a reserve fund held back for distribution at the end of the fiscal year.

Girl Scout Council Airs Plans

Gulf Pines Girl Scout Council Board of Directors met November 27 in Gulfport for the regular Council board meeting.

Mrs. Robert D. Portwood, president, introduced new Board members for 1974 and presided at the final 1973 meeting. Special reports on activities concluded in 1973 and planned projects for 1974 were given by committee chairmen.

"Introduction to American Heritage" will be the theme for the annual Girl Scout Day. On the Mall in March. The theme, selected to coincide with the Bicentennial of the United States, will feature many innovative additions in 1974.

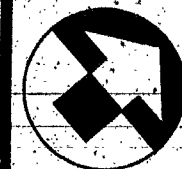

A new committee for Special Events and Projects was appointed. Mr. Alben Hopkins, attorney and chairman will be assisted by Mrs. Clyde Woodfield of Gulfport and Lucien Gex of Waveland.

A highlight of the meeting was a presentation of a booklet by Mrs. Charles Payne on behalf of Mrs. Ned Manning and the Girl Scouts of the Jackson County area. The booklet entitled "Girl Scouting On The Singing River" is filled with ideas, things to do and places to go and was created for leadership recruitment and to make the public more aware of Girl Scout service projects.

Mrs. Mattie Clements of Hattiesburg gave the final Field Report for 1973 concerning special merit awards in the Council and special events. The much in demand Girl Scout Calendars are still available through leaders.

Holiday time is here once again, and the Ladies Luncheon Club has a very special day planned for members and guests of Diamondhead December 7th.

In keeping with the festive season, a gala style show featuring a Christmas theme of holiday fashions will be presented by the Princess Dress Shop of Bay St. Louis. Miss Jane Ann Van Scooter will be moderator, and Mrs. Edgar J. Menard, Jr. will entertain with Christmas music during the day. For luncheon-style show reservations, call the Country Club at 452-9491 through December 6.

Mrs. and Mrs. Rudy Valentino of New Orleans spent last weekend in their Lakeside Villa summer residence. Their guests on Saturday were her brother and sister-in-law Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Bourgeois of Morgan City, La. who flew their private plane to Diamondhead Airport. The Valentinos enjoyed an aerial view of Diamondhead as a special treat from Brother Melvin, and later entertained their guests at the Club for dinner.

House guests of the George Sorensen this week are Dr. Robert Shaw of Hartford, Connecticut and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Douglas of Tampa, Florida. The William Templets attended the Slidell Garden Club's Annual Husband's Holiday Dinner party held at Pinewood Country club last Friday evening. Diamondhead will host a Pro-Am Golf Tournament on December 11 and 12. Gulf Coast lady golfers completed a play last Thursday with Alma Dobson representing Diamondhead, Snooky Williams, Marge McGowan and Mary Shuttan won the team play in the monthly Gulf Coast Women's Golf Association tournament at the Edgewater golf course in Biloxi. The winning team score was 15 under par 57. There were eight flights in the

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dickerson returned recently from a trip to Grand Bay, Alabama where they were the guests of Tom's brother, Mr. and Mrs. James Dickerson.

Diamondhead Garden Club held its December meeting at the Country Club on December 4th with President Billie Sorensen presiding. Guests at this meeting were Mmes. Florence Kibling, Shirley Pellegrin, and Carrie Normand. Others in attendance were Mmes. Paul Milam, Tom Berry, William L. Templett, John Lewko, Valerie Taranto, Cassie Boutte, Tom Shelton, Augustus Elmer, Malcolm Mundy, Dan Russell, Jr., Richard Criss, Ethel Evans, Mary Saucer, Darvin Hoppert, Eunice MacMillan. The program for the day was a flower arranging workshop during which all members participated in making Christmas centerpieces for the Ladies Luncheon Club to be held December 7 at the Country Club.

A short business meeting preceded the workshop, and the ladies enjoyed a delectable luncheon after. The January meeting program will be entitled "Beauty with Weeds" featuring Mrs. Malcolm Mundy of New Orleans and a member of the Club. The Ladies Golfing Association annual Christmas Party will be held on December 13 in the home of Mrs. Darvin Hoppert on Country Club Drive. Golfing will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the Christmas party will begin at 11 a.m.

Happy birthday wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Marks Wilkinson, Sr.

We are happy to hear that Mrs. H.O. Smith, Sr. who is 93 years old has regained her sight after an operation in Picayune Hospital.

Get well wishes are extended to Mr. Cliff Dawsey who is in a New Orleans hospital recovering from a heart attack.

Our sympathy to the Jim Anderson family due to the death of Mrs. Anderson's grandfather.

Everyone is invited to a house warming Dec. 15 in the new home of the Claud Bello family. Hostesses will be Mrs. Gloria Myres, Mrs. Chris Brown and Mrs. Barbara

1700 East Canal

Picayune, Miss.

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

Have had beautiful weather for both fishing and hunting the past week. Cool mornings with some frost, warming trend during the day and cool at night. Fish are like human beings they know when conditions are right and when to feed.

Winds and tides have been right. Low tides helped green trout fishing plenty. North and North-East winds caused the tides to go out. When the tides are high fish stay in the grass and are hard to get to. Experienced this the past week. Bass (green trout) fishing has been excellent with everyone catching them with artificial baits, by fly fishing and casting as well as fishing with live shrimp when one can get them.

As for salt water fishing it has been good. Speckles have been caught by trolling, casting and especially on live bait. Ground mullets or channel mullets, red fish, sheepshead and flounders are hitting dead shrimp and cut bait.

On the hunting side, doves are out until the next segment of the season. First part of the deer season closed Saturday. Complaint of rabbit hunters was that deer hunters and deer dogs over-ran rabbit hunters and rabbit hounds. Those with beagle hounds will take over from now on. Rabbit hunting will hold sway until the deer season opens again. The rabbit season is open when all other seasons are open. And there are plenty rabbits in this neck of the woods, according to those who hunt them.

Verifying how green trout are hitting are two of our best lady fishermen, Mary V. Zamsky and Katie Penton. They got the limit of green trout Saturday while using live shrimp in the Pipe Line Canal down at Ansley.

Ed Nelson who was hospitalized for a short time is out again and doing fine. He, with Steve Zamsky and Vic Schwartz, went rabbit hunting Saturday. No rabbits, reason; too many deer hunters in the woods. The trio have two wonderful beagle hounds. They will get their share of the bushy tails before the season is over, you can bet.

Steve Zamsky is more of a hunter than fisherman. Takes to the woods whenever he can. Hunts anything.

Made a booboo last week when I said Micky Demoran and Nicky Rauxet speared all those flounders. It should have been Micky and Pete Garcia. Was misinformed.

Jerry Kortekamp of Cincinnati, Ohio, is visiting his brother-in-law Ace Jones for a month here. They made a trip to the marsh over the weekend and returned with a nice catch of red fish and speckles. Both are expert fishermen.

Fred Bourgeois of Waveland had a ball catching big speckles down in Bayou Caddy last week. He was trolling.

Fred is a past master at catching them.

Bert Beck and Bobby Kelly both like to fish. They get their share of fish as well as hard crabs when they are giving.

One of our younger hunters is Kenny Demoran. He does mostly rabbit hunting with his friends. Kenny is the younger son of Emmet Demoran and a student at St. Stanislaus. He and his pal, a beagle hound gets a lot of the bushy tails.

No reason for not catching fish at this time. They are biting most everywhere. In Bayou Caddy, the Pipe Line Canal, at the Port and Harbor and Bayou Coward also outer Campbell Bayou. We are talking about both bass and speckle trout. The same thing applies to ground mullets, red fish, sheepshead, etc. It is simple to go to the American Legion Pier, the pier at Waveland or in the Canals at Bayou Caddy. You don't need a boat at these places.

Alden Mauffray, Ray Garner and Yours Truly made a nice catch of bass (green trout) Wednesday. They were hitting like nobody's business. Alden also caught 2 red fish. Not unusual he does it all the time. Alden is a hard fisherman, gets results, too. His slogan is, keep the bait in the water and work it like you know what!

Sheldon Souzeau, Sr. is going to fishing. Speckle trout is his goal. A little patience and practice will bring results, Sheldon.

Billy O'Neal is one of our local fishermen. He does any kind of fishing as long as it is fishing. Gets his share of fish, too.

Louis Decall, Hoke Ogden and Harry Roman got their share of nice speckles in Bayou Caddy last week. They were trolling. Speckles are still being caught on live shrimp in the bayou they said.

Was a pleasure talking to Curtis Summers. Curtis doesn't claim to be much of a fisherman but is one of the best paddlers. No kidding. Curtis still loves to fish. He is the son of the late Maurice Summers who paddled us while we fly fished, years ago.

Christ Episcopal Field Day 1973

Besides the usual 50-yard dashes, relay races and individual sprints, there were some pretty unusual events which one is not likely to encounter in the Olympic trials, but all of which called for a good bit of agility on the part of the young contestants. At two points in the day-long activity which attracted crowds of parents and friends, a special event for mothers was announced then one for fathers, so everybody got in the act and a few parents discovered talents they didn't know they had!

Some lively calypso music made the limbo a little easier....for those who lost.

North Central Defeated By Picayune

By Edward Favre
The Picayune Maroon Tide defeated the Hancock North Central Hawks 73-67 Saturday night at Picayune. Picayune took a 18-16 first period lead but the Hawks battled back to tie the score at 40-40 at halftime.
The Maroon Tide outscored the Hawks 25-10 in the third period and North Central came back in the fourth period and outscored Picayune but fell short of overtaking the Tide.
High scorer for North Central was Roger Ladner with 33 points. Charley McLaurin led Picayune scorers with 29 points.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Clermont Harbor Extension Homemakers Club held an annual Christmas party and installation of officers Monday afternoon at Mary Mahoney's Old French House, Biloxi.

Installed were Mrs. Maurice George, president; Mrs. A.M. Thomas, vice-president; Mrs. Ben Mutter, secretary; Mrs. J. C. Goodloe, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Corcoran, parliamentarian.

Mrs. H.W. Duke, installing officer, presented each with a Christmas corsage and members exchanged gifts.

Mrs. William Richardson, program chairman, was in charge of the event. There were 30 members attending.

Driver Ed Best Way To Learn

Ninety-two percent of all high schools in Mississippi now offer a Driver Education Course, yet less than half of the students take advantage of the program, according to a spokesman for the Mississippi Insurance Council.

Studies show that drivers with formal training are involved in fewer accidents than those who were taught some other way. The Insurance Council spokesman further stated, "It is regrettable that so few Mississippi students are taking advantage of Driver Education Courses since it definitely would reduce accidents."

Last year in this nation there were 54,700 automobile deaths, a good many of which involved young drivers. Statistics prove that while only 21.6 percent of all drivers are under the age of 25, this group is involved in 35 percent of all automobile accidents and 33.8 percent of all fatal accidents.

Bay Tigers Open Season With A Loser

BY EDWARD FAVRE

Last Tuesday night the Bay High Tigers opened their basketball season against the Long Beach Bearcats at Bay St. Louis Tigerdome and lost by the score of 81-24.
In the girls game the Tigerettes were defeated 58-41 by the Bear Kittens. The Long Beach girls took a 13-12 first period lead and increased the lead to 37-23 at halftime. The third period was played on even terms with both teams scoring nine points. Long Beach outscored the Tigerettes 12-9 in the fourth period.

High scorer for Long Beach was Donna Cuevas with 19 points; Sandra Lyons led the Tigerettes with 15 points.

In the boys' game the Bearcats had a commanding 18-2 lead at the end of the first period and continued building up their lead as the game progressed.

High scorer for the Bearcats was Jim Latimer with 16 points.

The Council recognizes the fact that the incident of young drivers involved in automobile accidents probably will remain higher than that of other age groups; however, the Driver Education Course can help. Parents with a child attending a high school offering Driver Education should insist that he take the course. If the high school is one of the few that doesn't offer Driver Education, parents should make it their business to find out why.

The Council suggests several things to parents to help reduce these statistics: establish definite rules about driving and conduct; make it your business to know about your child's behavior behind the wheel; don't be afraid to say "no" when you feel you should. It's often too late to be firm after the wreck; and if at all possible, don't teach your child to drive yourself.

Army Pro Cagers To Meet Local All-Stars In Bay Game

The highly rated and talented Fort Knox Infantry basketball team from Fort Knox, Ky. will play an exhibition game in Bay St. Louis Dec. 8 at Valena C. Jones gym.

The Fort Knox Gorillas are coached by former Bay St. Louis native, Sgt. Percy

"Yogi" McKay. During his 18-year tenure with the U.S. Army, McKay has received several citations, including the Bronze Star and as an athletic coach, has led division teams to numerous football and basketball championships. An outstanding cager in his own right, McKay stands 6 feet 7 inches and weighs 265 pounds.

Leading the Fort Knox roster are Greg Hoston, All-Army D.O. who stands 6 ft. 8 in. and weighs 230 pounds; and guard Sgt. N. Murphy, 6 ft. 1 in. and 180 lbs. and averaging 35 points per game.

The Fort Knox team will play the Bay All Stars who present a triple-threat with brothers Saunders, Sterling and Sullivan Bell. Other team standouts are Russell Fairconnetue and 6 ft. 6 in. Willie James Thomas, Bay High graduate who was courted by some of the country's top pro teams last year. The most aggressive of the Bell brothers, Sullivan, has been averaging 28 points per game while Sterling and Fairconnetue have been averaging 22 points per game in past contest. The City All-Stars, although with a 4-2 record already this season, are anticipating a hard fight Saturday night.

Game starts at 8:15 p.m. and admission is 75 cents for adults and 35 for students. The public is invited to watch what should be an exciting contest between pros and semi-pros.
